

INSIDE THE 3RD BEST LITTLE
HEALTH AND WELLNESS RESORT
OUTSIDE OF TUCSON

53 MILES
WEST OF VENUS

OUR SHOW

53 MILES WEST OF VENUS is a half-hour “health and wellness” comedy.

When their estranged great aunt Evelyn passes away, Milwaukee-based fraternal twins Leah and Ian Gilman are offered the opportunity to purchase her rundown wellness resort on the outskirts of Tucson.

After convincing two investors with their own motivations to buy in on the proposition -- Ian's former boss, injured ex-NBA star Kwame St. Simon, and Leah's former college roommate, trend-hungry tech millionaire Josephine Durk -- the foursome move to Chiron Valley Resort and Spa.

While Leah and Ian try to turn the resort around, Kwame searches for a cure to his career-ending injury, and Josephine doubles down on her efforts to discover the next health and wellness trend.

Meanwhile Zeb, the hotel's mercurial manager, Debra, the understanding but physically inflexible yoga instructor, and Simone, the straight-shooting, one-armed Reiki Master, work to preserve the “charm” of the place and the spirit of all that Evelyn left behind.

OUR OWNERS

Leah Gilman, 30 | Resort Manager

Uptight, exact, and a bit brash, Leah is type-A with a heart of gold. A perfectionist. She struggles relating to the slower pace of the resort and is often pushy when it comes to getting things done. On the plus side, she is indefatigable in her support of others and is excellent in a crisis. She always wants the best for everyone in every situation, but must often be reminded that she, and her opinion, aren't always needed to make that happen.

Ian Gilman, 30 | Event and Activities Coordinator

While caring and sensitive to others, Ian has a hard time finishing things that he starts. Devilishly handsome, most people let him skate by on charm. He is the life of the party even when no one is in the mood for a party. Seemingly absent minded, Ian is intuitive and truly understands what people want. He can be frustrating, but he on your worst days there is no one you'd rather have in your corner. Of course, he was probably the reason for that bad day, but water under the bridge, man.

Josephine Durk, 29 | Marketing Director

A stone cold fox, Josephine fancies herself a "disruptor." Overly captivated by sleek social media campaigns and splashy marketing gimmicks, she is determined to launch a health and wellness app that takes over the world and in her insufferable words "becomes the change that people crave in the world." At the resort, she is on a constant mission to transform Chiron Valley, hoping to attract a hipper Tulum-esque crowd. She can be dismissive of the more quaint aspects of the resort, but she also enjoys the notion of keeping things "authentic."

Kwame St. Simon, 24 | Head of Movement

A tall man with a gentle spirit, Kwame listens before he speaks and is wise beyond his years. Determined to find a cure to what doctors call an incurable knee injury, he is up for trying any new-age, alternative medicines available. His gentleness also masks his insanely competitive side that reveals itself when both he and Ian compete for Josephine's romantic attention. Aside from his physical talents, Kwame is also a closet crossword enthusiast and birder.

OUR STAFF

Zeb Forest, 50s | Hotel Manager

A hotel manager whose skill set does not match the job, Zeb can't make a decision to save his life. He also hates telling people what to do and has mastered the art of passive suggestion. Often Zeb can be found in the back office, binge watching reruns of Alf while the entire resort crumbles around him.

Debra Gronk, 40s | Yoga Instructor

Debra owns an unending number of yoga pants - all styles, all patterns, never the same. What she lacks in know-how, she makes up in charm. Very supportive of everyone's journey, Debra thinks that yoga is a pathway to understanding first the body, then the mind. She imbues her practice with a warmth that masks her genuine ignorance of the fundamental structures of yoga and instead encourages an individual approach; often conjuring new names and positions out of thin air.

Simone Garcia, 25 | Reiki Master

Born and raised in Tucson, Simone lost her arm in a freak magic show accident. After coming to terms with her loss, she decided to become the world's first one-armed reiki master (note: this may or may not be true). Simone is a matter-of-fact, straight-talking young thing that scoots in and out of conversations, dropping deeps spiritual truths while also sharing pop culture opinions nobody asked for or even understands. She is a skilled reiki master who does not allow anyone at the resort to sit in on her sessions making her an alluring mystery.

Frank "The Smudge" Carpetta, 60s | Groundskeeper

We don't know much about Frank. He appeared from the desert 20 years ago. Part mobster, part drag queen, Frank has a talent for making problems quietly disappear. With a voice of gold and a penchant for funk and soul, Tuesday nights in the lounge are reserved for performances by his alter ego, Chakra Khandalini.

Vijay and Stephens is the creative team of Amrita Vijayaraghavan and Andrew Stephens. A writing and directing duo with production bonafides, Vijay and Stephens tell stories - both their own and others' - in scripted, live, and recorded formats.

Since 2011, V&S have directed, produced, curated, and performed in live events ranging from rooftop poetry slams, to late night dancehall dustups, to cabarets and more. They have presented young writers, musicians, and performers who have gone on to publish and present work on national and international platforms.

As award winning writers and musicians themselves, V&S write music and words for the stage, and more recently, for the screen. In 2018, they were quarter-finalists in Final Draft's Big Break Contest with their big-haired, small-dreams comedy, The Lord's Work. They are currently developing two new projects for television.

In addition to their own creative work, V&S works closely with the New York Times to produce national events geared at bringing the newsroom closer to subscribers. They also produce the chamber music series "A Little Night Music" at Lincoln Center's annual Mostly Mozart Festival. Other recent credits include Ralph Lauren's 50th Anniversary show and dinner in Central Park and Chanel's 2019 Metier D'Art collection at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Former clients include Carnegie Hall, Samsung, Adobe, and Moet/Hennessy, among others.
